STEPS TAKEN TO HOUSE DEFENSE WORKERS HERE

Program of Aid Mapped by Homes Registration Committee.

Effective program to protect workers was launched this afternoon with a meeting of the civilian defense homes committee.

Meeting was held at the Mayor's office. He explained the purpose of the program and the committee's plan to deal with the local situation and to establish a defense office under the civilian defense program.

Michael Named Director

The office will be maintained at 10 North State street. Louis E. Michael, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was named director of the civilian defense homes committee and in this capacity will have charge of the office. Michael will be responsible to the committee for the operation of the office.

The new program in a measure replaces the one established a couple of months ago by the Chamber to fill the gap as the heavy influx of defense workers arrived here.

Mayor Snare told the committee that a WPA project had been approved to provide a staff for the housing office. The number to be employed has not yet been determined, he said.

Survey To Be Made

Mr. Michael said today that he would lead the committee plans to make a complete survey of the city to determine what living quarters are available for defense workers. For the time being, however, the housing office will have registrations by telephone and personal calls at the office.

The present need, Mr. Michael said, is for light housekeeping rooms due to the fact that many defense workers are bringing their wives and families with them. The office, however, will have living quarters of all types, including vacant houses, apartments, light housekeeping rooms and sleeping rooms.

Not Restricted

Quarters registered with the office will be available to defense workers. Mr. Michael said they are not restricted to members of the Scio O. D. P.

Some of the housing committee members are: Dr. M. Weinbaum, Dr. Reed, Captain Cameron, E. J. Hollandshead, L. E. J. Horn, Carl Danner, C. L. Herbert, Wade, Floyd, J. E. Tanner, Carroll, D. A. J. Berry, Howard, C. S. M. Ingmire and Harold Nussbaum.

All Marion Retail Stores To Join in "Whiteout" Bond Sale

15-Minute Patriotic Demonstration July 1 To Launch Marion's Part in Nationwide Drive.

Four hundred Marion retail establishments of all kinds and sizes will "Whiteout for Victory" Wednesday, July 1, at 12 o'clock noon as the stores join with a million others throughout the nation in a drive to sell a billion dollars worth of war savings stamps and bonds in July.

The "whiteout" will last for 15 minutes and in that period no merchandise will be sold. All clerks and store employees will become stamp salesmen to contact customers.

Nationwide Effort

Retailers throughout the nation have banded together in a "Retailers for Victory" program to last throughout July. Their goal for their sales is 4 percent of the total retail sales made in July, 1941. The nation quota in dollars has not been received from the state committee, Jerry Passen, chairman of the local drive, said.

During the "whiteout" there will be a radio program over station WMRN. There will be talks by merchants and an explanation of the campaign purpose. The committee has urged all Marion residents to turn on their sets to the station for the 15-minute period.

All Stores Listed

The committee has mapped a program that will carry the campaign into every participating store in the city. All customers will be asked to buy stamps or take their change in stamps. A supply of stamps will be distributed to each store by the committee.

Working with the committee will be store chairmen who will take the lead in their stores. To help boost enthusiasm among the store employees a mass meeting of all clerks will be held in The Star auditorium at 9 a. m. Tuesday, the day before the drive opens. The committee today is arranging a program for this rally. Details of the program are not complete but plans are being made to have two speakers, and it is possible the Harding High school band.

Will Sell in Restaurants

While clerks are selling stamps in the stores, stamp girls carrying trays will solicit sales in 26 restaurants.

A group of store chairmen will meet Monday at 9 a. m. in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce on North State street.

The program as mapped so far deals only with the opening day of the drive. But details for continuing the campaign are being worked out. Mr. Passen said.

ON ALERT IN EGYPT

A helmeted Egyptian soldier operates the gunner's sights on an anti-aircraft battery near Cairo. The war in Africa moved closer to Egypt, with the loss of the Libyan port of Tobruk, which had been held by British forces.

ROMMEL ARMY ALREADY PAST EGYPT BORDER

Plunges 60 Miles Into Country. Headed Toward Suez Canal.

The Associated Press

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's invasion army has already plunged more than 60 miles into Egypt in a lightning sweep toward the Suez canal, British military headquarters acknowledged today, after British troops fell back in heavy all-day fighting yesterday.

And this grave setback, a warning to Adolf Hitler of an impending allied "second front" in Europe came with the official announcement that a European theater of operations for U. S. armed forces has been formally established.

The war department said Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, recently assistant chief of staff in charge of the operations division, had been made commanding general.

Dispatches from London said Gen. Eisenhower had arrived in Britain and taken command of the European theater for American forces.

In Egypt, the situation was apparently fast reaching a showdown.

A bulletin from Cairo headquarters said powerful Axis columns had driven southeast of Sidi Barrani, the farthest point of the Italian invasion in 1940, and implied that the invaders might have penetrated still deeper into the ancient land of the Pharaohs.

The communiqué said British troops defending the Egyptian frontier had withdrawn from the main border defenses on a 25-mile line extending from Salum, on the Mediterranean coast, to Sidi Omar.

Our forces engaged the enemy all day yesterday and inflicted heavy losses on them," the British command said.

Simultaneously, the Italian high command announced that Axis forces had captured the key frontier citadels of Port Capuzzo, Halfaya (Halfway) pass and Salum, and then raced 60 miles into Egypt to capture Sidi Barrani.

It was at bloody Halfaya pass a rocky, easily-defending stronghold southeast of Salum, that the British had been expected possibly to make their main stand against Rommel's legions after the disaster at Tobruk.

Sidi Barrani, about 430 miles west of the Suez canal had been in British hands since Dec. 11, 1940, when Italian troops who occupied the town three months earlier were put to flight by Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's triumphant counter-offensive.

The remaining resistance of the British Eighth army has been overcome on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier," the Italian high command said.

It was not clear immediately whether the British army had executed a strategic retreat, or withdrawal to stronger defensive positions, or London military quarters had intimated might be done, or whether they had been thrown back by violent assault.

In any event the threat to the vital Suez canal was now sharply outlined, and it remained to be seen whether Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's battered forces, dis-

Stories of Dutch Harbor Attack Told by Witnesses

Army and Naval Forces Leaped to Guns as First Jap Aircraft Appeared.

The Associated Press

SEATTLE, June 25—In the first dramatic eyewitness report of what happened at Dutch Harbor, eyewitnesses and seamen told of the arrival of a transport here, how the Japanese air attack caught civilians by surprise and how the gallant gunners on their ship and ashore laid a deadly screen of anti-aircraft fire about the raiding planes.

While army and navy men manned the anti-aircraft guns, some of the ship's crew snatched up rifles and leapt away at the close of hours.

Long at the military installations disclosed that the commander of the Dutch Harbor naval base issued a commendation for courageous duty under fire by the army transport's crew and the gunners.

How many Jap planes were downed has never been announced officially. Reports brought by the witnesses to the island failed to clarify the point.

(The official navy announcement of the raid on the Dutch Harbor base reported four bombers and 15 fighter planes were involved in the raid early the morning of June 3, with an unreported number of planes returning six hours later for what appeared to be a second raid.)

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS IN PARLEY TODAY

Two Leaders Also Hold Conference with Pacific War Council.

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 25—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain gave congressional leaders today a 40-minute review of the world situation touching on the British defeat in North Africa and the opening of a second front in Europe, and the legislators called the survey "very satisfactory and very encouraging."

Speaker Rayburn told reporters that the Libyan phase of the war was covered "in some detail" and that a second front was mentioned "incidentally." That subject, he added, always comes up, of course.

Churchill's meeting with leaders from both Republican and Democratic ranks on Capitol Hill started off a round of conferences which set the day apart as one of the most important since the prime minister flew the Atlantic a week ago to confer with the President a second time.

None of the legislative leaders would go into details of the conversations with the United Nations leaders, Rayburn remarking that a great many of these were of a military nature.

The opening of a second battle front in Europe has been a subject of widespread speculation, speculation which has received official encouragement at the White House, in connection with the Churchill visit. The congressional leaders did not disclose whether any concrete decisions had been reached on this point.

The ranks of the war council, which includes representatives of eight nations engaged in warfare in the Pacific, were augmented today by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada.

War Council Meeting

The war council was invited to the White House not only for a formal discussion apparently designed to help integrate Pacific operations with those in Europe, but also to an informal luncheon, Secretary of State Hull and Undersecretary Welles were also on the luncheon list.

Afterward, the President and Mr. Churchill arranged the separate parley with Secretary Hull and the British ambassador, Lord Halifax.

On Churchill's personal agenda, moreover, were appointments with the Indian agent general in this country, Sir Gunga Shankar Rajpal, and Ralph W. Close, the British minister to the United States.

The congressional delegation was made up of Vice President Wallace, Chairman Connally (D-Conn.) of the senate foreign relations committee; Senator McNary (D-Ore.) of the Republican leadership; Speaker Rayburn; House Democratic Leader McCormack; House Republican Leader Martin (D-N.Y.) of the foreign affairs committee; and Rep. Eaton (R-N.J.) a high ranking member of the committee.

New Dutch Representative

It was the official Pacific war council meeting for Dr. Boeyo Van Kieff, a Netherlands foreign minister, who was sitting in place of the regular Netherlands representative, Ambassador Alexander Louden, who is out of town. Mackenzie King was putting in his second appearance at a council meeting as a result of a special trip from Ottawa.

Other regulars included Lord Halifax, Philippine President Manuel Quezon, Chinese Foreign Minister T. T. Y. S. Soong, Canadian Minister Leighton McCarthy, New Zealand Minister Walter Nash, Australian Minister Sir Owen Dixon, and Harry L. Hopkins, one of the President's chief advisers. Also invited to attend was Captain John L. McCrea, naval aide to Mr. Roosevelt.

STATE CANCELS ROYAL LICENSE

Liquor Permit of Cafe Here Suspended by Board Order. Effective Today.

The state liquor board in Columbus yesterday suspended the liquor licenses held by the Royal cafe and issued a copy of its findings to Chief William E. Marks and Mrs. Berna Brooks Yeager, owner of the night club.

The order virtually means the closing of the Royal and sets the date of suspension as June 25, today.

Chief Marks said in all similar cases where licenses have been suspended, the liquor board has sent its own representatives to enforce the order and seal the liquor. Although the order sets today as the suspension date, no word had been received this afternoon indicating they would close the Royal today.

Order Follows Hearing

The suspension order came two days after city officials and employees of the Royal cafe had been summoned to Columbus to testify before the state board concerning the Royal cafe's observance of the permit requirements.

The findings of the board, as stated in the copy of the journal entry received by Chief Marks, are as follows: "The board finds from the evidence that the alleged permit premises were not a restaurant or hotel, as required by the general code of Ohio and that food and meals were not prepared and served in said place of business."

Permit Suspended

"It is therefore ordered and adjudged that permits D-1, D-2, D-3 and D-3A be and the same are suspended for the remainder of their terms as of June 25."

Permits D-1 and D-2 authorize the sale of 32 beer and 60 beer and wine, respectively. D-3 permits operation of a saloon and D-3A is a supplementary permit which extends the period of legal operation to 230 a. m.

The board's action refers to Mrs. Yeager as the owner of the Royal because that was her name at the time the permits were issued. However, she has remarried and her name is now Mrs. Berna Brooks Yeager Turpen.

MAIL CARRIERS AID IN DRIVE

Rural Delivery Men To Carry Letters to Patrons To Boost Collections.

The Marion county war petroleum council has enlisted the assistance of rural mail carriers to facilitate collection of scrap rubber in rural Marion, county in connection with the nationwide drive to collect all available scrap material, H. A. Krigbaum and J. P. Sharkey, co-chairmen of the local war petroleum council, announced today.

Rural mail carriers will begin distribution tomorrow morning, letters to Marion county farmers requesting full cooperation in making the drive a thorough success. Following is the letter:

Fellow Americans,

The most important material needed in our national defense today is "rubber." The success of our armed forces depends on it and we as citizens will most certainly be forced to lower our standard of living if an adequate supply is not provided quickly. Thousands of tons are laying around in out of the way places and the President of the United States has ordered the petroleum industry with the task of gathering it in. We rural carriers are doing our bit in encouraging every person on our routes to gather up every scrap of rubber not actually in use and in helping to promote some way of getting it to the oil companies.

Won't you please fill out the questionnaire below and deposit it in your mail box so we can pick it up tomorrow?

1. Have you turned in all of your scrap rubber?
2. Will you gather up all your scrap rubber and take it to the nearest gasoline station or oil company?
3. Will you gather up all your scrap rubber and pile it in your door yard so we can have an oil truck stop and pick it up?

When farm residents have filled out the blank, they are requested to place them in their rural mail boxes. Meanwhile, officials of oil companies in Marion county announced today that all Marion

U. S. OVERSEAS CHIEF CHOSEN

Maj. Gen. Eisenhower Takes Over American Command in Europe.

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 25—Major General Dwight D. Eisenhower has arrived in London and taken command of the European theater for American forces, it was announced today by the war department, which defined a theater of operations as "an area where combat is in progress or will be."

Eisenhower, a native Texan and an armored force expert, went to his post in London from an assignment as chief of the operations divisions of the war department's general staff.

The department spokesman also defined "theater of operations" as "an area where combat is in progress or will be."

Explained that such a theater usually is divided into the combat or front line zone and the line of communications but added that "with air power as important there is little difference now between front and rear areas."

No 2nd Front Comment

The brief announcement was made without reference to current speculation on the possibility of a second front in Europe.

Major General James E. Chaney has been in command of American forces in the British Isles, and officials did not disclose his new status. Major General Russell P. Hart remains in command of American forces in northern Ireland.

In a statement by General Eisenhower on his arrival in England, which the war department released, the new commander said "the formal establishment of a European theater is a logical step in coordinating the efforts of Great Britain and the United States."

"Six months ago, the prime minister of Great Britain and the President of the United States, together with the people of the United Nations, joined in a solemn, unified, and far-reaching declaration of their common purpose to bring combined action to even closer cooperation."

"The presence here in the British Isles of American soldiers and sailors in rapidly increasing numbers is evidence that we are true to the line of that pattern."

General Eisenhower, a native of Tyler, Texas, is 51 and has been a member of the war department general staff for the last four months.

Congratulations Sent to Rifles' Organizer

George Hildbrandt, director of Marion's civilian defense military program and organizer of the Marion Rifles, yesterday afternoon received a telegram from Adj. Gen. Donald Hancock congratulating him on the success of the mass enlistment in the Ohio State Guard at the army Tuesday night.

The telegram read as follows: "Congratulations on the spirit and patriotism of the 30 men of your unit who enlisted last night in the Ohio State Guard. The work which this unit and others under your direction have done in preparing themselves to assist in the defense of our country is one of the most encouraging things I have seen."

CLEVELAND COUNCIL TARGET OF WOMEN

Stage Demonstration on Behalf of G. L. K. Smith.

The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 25—Women demonstrators hurriedly waded newspapers and magazines at city councilmen last night as the legislature discussed a motion commenting on Mayor Frank J. Lausche for barring Gerald L. K. Smith, chairman of "The Committee of 1,000,000," from speaking in public hall.

A riot call brought a score of policemen who escorted from council chambers nearly 100 women identified as members of the United Mothers of America.

The women board members of President Roosevelt and cheered Smith, who appeared unexpectedly at the session.

Most of the barrage was aimed at Councilman Joseph Krasko, who introduced the motion, which was tabled.

Smith, a former lieutenant in the share-the-wealth movement of the late Sen. Huey P. Long of Louisiana, describes his "Committee of 1,000,000" as a "crusading and patriotic movement of the people to balk the 'international plot' for world revolution."

He established headquarters for his organization in Detroit three years ago.

Second Czech Community Reported Razed by Nazis

The Associated Press

LONDON, June 25—The Czech community at Leszno in Bohemia has been razed by the Nazis on the accusation that the villagers hid parachutists involved in the slaying of Reinhard Heydrich, "protector of Bohemia-Moravia," it was reported today in a broadcast radio broadcast heard by a Czech government listener here.

The Vichy French news service quoted the Prague announcement as saying all the adult male population was executed. Leszno was described as a community of about 100 inhabitants.

Presumably this was another reprisal like that already taken at Lidice, where the male population of about 250 was wiped out by firing squads, the women carried off to concentration camps and the children placed in "educational" institutions. Then the town was destroyed.

The wiping out of Lidice, near Kladno, northwest of Prague, had been the principal measure taken by the Germans in Bohemia and Moravia in reprisal for the fatal shooting of Reinhard Heydrich, the main townsmen of the Czech-Slovakia.

What happened to the Leszno population was not disclosed by the Budapest broadcast, which quoted an official announcement in Prague newspapers.

The announcement charged the villagers with sheltering "parachute agents" involved in the Heydrich plot.

Other phases of the purge of anti-Nazi Czechs continued. The Budapest radio said that 10 Czechs were sentenced to death at Prague yesterday and 12 at Kladno. The charges were not disclosed.

HOLLYWOOD, June 25—James Fleming, 33, stand-in for actor Errol Flynn, was booked in jail today on suspicion of assault with intent to do bodily harm as police investigated a row at Flynn's home early last Sunday.

Capt. Vernon Rasmussen of the homicide squad said the condition of Errol's body, butler for heiress Barbara Hutton, was such that "we may have a homicide case on our hands."

Goat suffered a fractured skull in an incident in the Flynn kitchen. He had been hired to help tend bar at a birthday party for Flynn.

Free Baby Clinic To Be Aided By Proceeds from Race Meet Tickets

Woman's Board of Hospital Again Sponsors Sale for Little Grand Circuit To Help Assure Health for Children.

Scores of babies, who otherwise would continue having their health retarded through lack of proper nourishment or medical care, will be benefited by the dollars netted by the Woman's Board of the Marion City Hospital who are sponsoring the "Little Grand Circuit" here July 1 through July 10.

Proceeds of the ticket sale, this year, as in former years, will be used to finance the board's free baby clinic located in the basement of the City Hospital.

While there are no reports as yet on the sales of the tickets, the board is a large advertisement of the women are on the job and the campaign promises to get a great many more babies into the clinic.

Any mother may take her baby to the clinic, the physicians are on duty in the City and County Health departments find it a great help in getting babies who come under their care started right in feeding formulas and other health regulations.

"There is always room for any baby that needs help along the road to health," is the board's slogan in the work of the baby clinic.

The board of tickets also have been

Family Men and Key War Workers Last Draftees

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Family men and key war workers will be the last to be called to the colors by local draft boards under new orders, went out today.

Draft headquarters announced four categories to govern the order under which men will be called up on the basis of dependency, leaving married men with children as the last to be inducted but emphasizing that they could count upon no permanent deferment.

Meanwhile, Paul V. McNutt, war-relief commissioner, changed his previous work-order to give men with essential skills a chance to find jobs in vital war industries before being taken into the army.

Previously selective service boards had been asked only to defer essential workers who actually had key jobs.

The draft headquarters ruling was in line with the bill President Roosevelt signed yesterday granting allowance for soldiers' dependents. The ruling established general groups to be inducted in the following order:

"Category 1. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have no bona-fide financial dependents.

"Category 2. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have financial dependents other than wives or children.

"Category 3. Registrants otherwise qualified for military service who have wives and children or other dependents in their homes and who were married prior to Dec. 8, 1941, and at a time when induction was not imminent."

When a local draft board runs out of men in the first category it will dip into the next one and so on.

Other aspects of the draft headquarters orders are explained in the following questions and answers:

Q. Will it be compulsory for local draft boards to classify their registrants into the four categories and call up men for service in this order?

A. Selective service headquarters said it was the "expressed intent of congress" under the new law and insofar as practical should be followed.

Q. Will a married man who is now subject to induction be reclassified according to the new categories?

A. The directive is not retroactive, but selective service said until reclassification is completed

BACKACHE--Check Kidneys First

Healthy Kidneys Remove from the Blood the Waste Matter. The excess acids and poisons formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatic Pains, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Too Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches, and Cramps, all may result from Faulty Kidneys.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Gloomy Garden

LAY the money on the line, Clark was saying, "and it's yours. You've got until tomorrow morning."

The answering voice was low and precise. "Very well. I'll get in touch with you."

With that the stranger turned and started for the gateway. Perry Clarke watched him and if Joyce had not at that moment shifted her glance she would never have known that there was still another witness to that meeting on the lawn.

She had already lost the stranger in the shadows and had glanced along the terrace. Between her and the corner, light from four windows made a bright, clear-cut platform beyond the corner of the house was at, but sudden darkness. Yet it was here that some feeble movement caught her eye, the movement of some shapeless blotch that stood out blacker than the shadow of the house. An instant later it was gone but the impression that someone had been there was distinct and unshakable. She looked away just as Perry Clarke turned and started for the house.

He passed twenty feet away from her, whistling softly. He cut through the swatch of light and disappeared around the corner of the house. Presently Joyce followed him and when she reached the sun-room he was seated at the piano lightly running his fingers up and down the keys.

She saw as she went into the drawing room that there was still no sign of Ward or Delia and she made a show of stopping a moment to talk to some people before she continued on to the hall. The maid remained politely unconcerned as she crossed to a smaller sitting room opposite.

Dimly-lighted and furnished with a comfortable informality, it was empty at the moment, but there was a door connecting with some room to the rear and as Joyce approached she saw the door was ajar. She had nearly reached it when it opened.

There was an impulsive quickness to Delia Stewart's entrance that stopped Joyce short and when the girl saw her, she stopped. Joyce saw that she had been crying. There were no tears now, but her eyes were red-rimmed and she clenched her hand there was a handkerchief, wadded and damp.

"Delia," Joyce, her heart turning over at the white, strained look on the girl's face. "What is it, darling? What's wrong?"

"It's nothing."

"Oh, Joyce," for just an instant the girl's voice broke and she took a half step as though to seek comfort in Joyce's arms, up and her shoulders were hunched and then she checked herself. Her chin came up and stopped its quivering. Her voice got small and tight. "It's nothing. Really, I've just been feeling sorry for myself, I guess."

With that her face twisted in what was supposed to be a smile and she stepped past. By the time she reached the hall her head was up and her shoulders were hunched and she glanced at the door, moved up to it. The room beyond was gloomy and book-lined. Over by the windows, outside the range of the table lamp, stood Ward Allen, his back turned, his hands thrust hard in his jacket pockets.

He did not look around until Joyce was at his shoulder. "Oh, hello," he said shortly.

"What have I done?" Ward said.

"Well, somebody's done something, that's obvious, isn't it?" She hesitated and he continued to stare out the window. "You're both being pretty silly about something—Why?"

He turned quickly, startling her with the savageness of his words. "Why is it with you women? Must you know everything? Is there some law that gives you the right to demand an explanation for—"

"Don't be angry with me," Ward said.

"I'm not angry," he said, following as she started from the room. "I'm just all choked up inside."

The point of view was given in volume and as Joyce started across the drawing room she saw the reason. Delia Stewart was seated on the bench beside Perry Clarke. They were playing a four-handed duet, and in appreciative audience had gathered around them.

A crowd of people was looking up. Why so many? Kent Murdock and one boy looked over. "I feel queer," Joyce said. "I did sort of forget you, didn't I?"

"It's not that," Joyce said. "Although I think I think of you certainly did."

She brought her eyes back to Perry Clarke and Kent followed her glance.

"Oh," he said presently. "Hm. I only wish we could do something about it," she said.

Late Visitor

It was exactly 11:30 when the door opened. Joyce Murdock noticed this at once because the sudden noise surprised her and she looked immediately at the clock. She had just stepped on her nightgown and for a second or two she stood there, wondering what it could be. When the sound came again, sharp and insistent, she reached for her dressing gown and belted it about her.

She had known at once that it could not be Kent, because he never forgot his key, and by the time she reached the entryway there was not enough doubt in her mind to make her hesitate. Just then the door went off for the third time and with her hand on the knob she called.

"Who is it?"

"Delia."

The instant Joyce saw her she knew that something had happened. This was a new and different Delia.

She was still wearing the frock she had worn to the cocktail party, but over it she had put on a camel's hair coat and a plain brown felt hat. Below the trim her color was high and her eyes were wide and bright.

"Well," Joyce said. "Delia?"

"Oh, Joyce," The girl put her arms around her and hugged her. "For just once the most beautiful thing that happens, I don't know what will happen. I might even be arrested. So I just had to come."

Joyce screwed up her eyes and held the girl off, feeling the excitement itself now and groping for something to say. Delia didn't wait. She tore off her hat and laid out and dropped on the floor. She folded her arms and hugged her breasts and sat looking at Joyce.

Major's Wife Now in Marion Relates Her Experiences in Japs' Pearl Harbor Attack

Mrs. Richard Hunter Lawson Tells of Peaceful Sunday Changed to Day of Horror.

By MARY GRACELY

For most of its information concerning the bombing of Pearl Harbor was gained through articles written by persons having access to the facts of what happened that December morning but to Mrs. Richard Hunter Lawson (2101 1/2 South Greenwood street) those are never-to-be-forgotten hours in a life lived at various army posts.

Mrs. Lawson is the wife of Major Richard Hunter Lawson, who has been stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, since June of last year. Major Lawson and his family were in Hawaii also from 1933 to 1938. The intervening years were spent at Fort Benning, Ga., and West Point Military Academy, where Major Lawson was an instructor in mathematics. Before going to Hawaii the first time the Lawsons were stationed at Fort Thomas, Ky.

Following the bombing Mrs. Lawson and her daughter, Jean, and mother, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Little, were forced to leave the island. After a perilous trip across the Pacific they landed at San Francisco.

They came to Marion the last of April because of a close friendship with the late Mrs. Alice Shepherd Brickley and decided to make their home here for the duration.

Memories of Dec. 7

In describing the events of Dec. 7, Mrs. Lawson said in an interview at her Marion home that it was a beautiful Sunday morning in Hawaii and that all of the civilians were in the streets of Honolulu. She said that at 10 minutes of 8 a bomb fell on the occurrence of an air raid. She thought it was a drill and that the planes were doing a practice run. They would crash. There followed a loud explosion which made the walls of the one-floor store building occupied by the Lawsons seem to be pushed in and then sucked out.

After dropping their bombs on the air field of the army base, the Japanese planes flew at an elevation of only about 50 feet and machine-gunned the quarters barracks and hospital. The Lawson home was located across the street from the 10th Infantry barracks and the hospital and both seemed to be objectives of the bombing according to Mrs. Lawson, who said the bombs fell on the street and against the walls of the house in such quantities that they sounded like hail.

Under Gun Fire

Within five minutes after the attack Major Lawson left the house and ran about eight blocks along the main street to division headquarters, dodging from tree to tree as he was machine-gunned the whole way. He picked up one bullet that landed at his feet.

About 8:20 a soldier came for Mrs. Lawson and her daughter and mother and during a hail helped them across the street to the lower floor of one of the barracks buildings where the women and children of that area were kept under heavy guard the rest of the day.

During the second attack, which followed shortly, the women watched the planes and were almost deafened by the blasting noise of the machine guns mounted on all roofs. Mrs. Lawson remarked that during the time in the barracks everyone was remarkably calm, there being only two cases of near hysteria, one a new bride and the other an older woman. The hospital was so jammed with casualties that all women without children were sent there to help. The rest worked on bandages as they did not want mothers to be separated from their children. They were all given gas masks, which were with them until they sailed from Hawaii.

Hazardous Night Ride

That night all women and children were evacuated from Schofield by bus. It was raining and so black that it was necessary for Mrs. Lawson to hold on to her daughter and mother to keep them from being separated. For the evacuation large silver buses belonging to the Honolulu bus service were used and several times when the stars and partial moon emerged it seemed to those on them that they were perfect targets for the Jap planes which were expected momentarily.

It is 16 miles from Schofield Barracks to Honolulu but that night moving without lights on a road crowded with military vehicles and interrupted with long waits, the buses required three and a half hours to make the trip. An M. P. escort and armed guards traveled with them.

On reaching Honolulu the conveyer broke up into smaller units and the group of which Mrs. Lawson was a member was taken to a Hawaiian school. At dawn a third alarm came and it was necessary for everyone to crowd under kindergarten tables. Later citizens of Honolulu invited them to their homes until they could return to Schofield.

All the island was placed under martial law and completely blacked out. The radios were silenced except for announcements by the army and no news from guard for help. There was always a guard around the quarters and at night a double one. Sleep was almost impossible because things that seemed slight in the day time assumed tremendous proportions at night.

Early Christmas morning, after having had 36 hours' notice, staff families and air corps dependents were taken by bus to Honolulu.

The day was spent in the pier and at 1:30 that afternoon they boarded ships bound for the United States. The time of greatest danger was the first 48 hours out of Honolulu as Japanese submarines came to the surface and shelled three parts of the island the day after the ships sailed.

On Dec. 31 the three boats landed at San Francisco and were met by President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Although expressing gratitude for escape from the war zone Mrs. Lawson said, "For most of us wives, I believe, the feeling of relief at having our families safe was soon replaced by a great loneliness for our loved ones in Hawaii."

HOW TO FIND MILLIONS MORE POUNDS OF RUBBER STILL IN HIDING!

Only a Few Days Left to Search for This Vital War Material . . .

OUR COUNTRY'S NEED FOR RUBBER is "so grave and so urgent," as a government spokesman expressed it, that we must all do even more. And we can do it!

THERE ARE STILL MILLIONS of pounds of old rubber "in hiding"—in trash heaps, vacant lots, woods, garages, deserted factories and houses, the old gully down by the railroad tracks, and a hundred other places.

Only a few days ago, youngsters and grownups turned up many tons of scrap rubber in almost-forgotten dumps in Medina, Youngstown and Akron. You can help by searching out the valuable rubber to be found in these places. Why not get together with a group of friends and conduct a "Rubber Hunt" in the evening and over the week end?

THERE ARE MANY OTHER WAYS you can help get the rubber in. Be sure to look again at home—you're almost certain to find something that was overlooked previously. Ask your neighbors if they've turned their rubber in yet. Look around where you work and if you find any rubber ask if it can be turned in.

WHAT YOUR RUBBER WILL DO!

AMERICA NEEDS EVERY SINGLE SCRAP of rubber you can find! It will help build tanks, planes, guns, ships, life rafts, gas masks, tires—hundreds of things that are needed to win the war. Turn in all you can! You'll be helping your country and helping yourself.

JUST A FEW DAYS LEFT—BRING IT IN NOW!

HE LIVES TO FIGHT AGAIN—thanks to a rubber raft!

You remember the story—it flashed over the news wires only a few days ago. During the great battle of Midway Island a gallant Navy flyer roared down and launched his torpedo squarely into a large Japanese airplane carrier. His plane was hit and pancaked into the sea. Wounded and helpless, his life was saved by the rubber life raft which floated out of the wreckage of his plane.

Three old tires will supply enough rubber to make one of these rafts.

SCRAP RUBBER NEED MOST URGENT NOW
There's good rubber in that worn out tire, that split hot water bottle.

The U. S. rubber industry always has used a certain amount of reclaimed rubber—rubber made from scrap—in its products. Automobile tires contain from 25 to 50 per cent reclaimed rubber, depending upon price. Substantial amounts were mixed with new crude rubber to make your over shoes and shower curtains. Scrap rubber is potentially as good as new rubber in many respects, now it's needed to bridge the rubber shortage created when the Japs overran Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies.

LIPPMANN

publicity softens those who let it be given out.

Now Reap Results

It has high systematic value that first-rate men are not in charge. For those who are genuinely in the know there are much sorer tests. Perhaps the chief reason why they are not called along quite well in this country without having to insist upon the very highest standards of excellence in the public service. Honestly, a fair amount of industry, some public spirit have seemed good enough; we have pursued excellence elsewhere where the rewards were greater than in public life.

Thus, when the fate of the nation and the lives of millions are at stake, we find that our standards of judgment are soft and complacent. A man, known by every one to be altogether inadequate to his task, can be indifferently tolerated just because he is where he is, and it is such an infernal nuisance to remove him and find some one better.

The cult of incompetence is one of the fatal diseases of modern life: it will be the ruin of us if we do not look out. What is more, this will not be the century of the common man, or in any event it will be a ghastly century, if we do not select up from being drunk with quality and set up for ourselves standards of quality, where not the mass of things but excellence is the objective.

(Note: In my column of March 31 reference was made to a dispatch by David Lawrence on the synthetic rubber situation. It has been asserted that readers may have interpreted my comments as a reflection on the journalistic integrity of Mr. Lawrence. I challenged his story of why America is without synthetic rubber. But if Mr. Lawrence or any one else took this to be a reflection on his journalistic integrity, I may say that it was not, and that no reflection was intended. W. L.)

NELSON TALKS ON SCRAP NEED

Declares Collections Must Be Speeded; War Housing Construction Affected.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Chief Donald M. Nelson today declared that the nation's war materials shortages are due in part to a "too slow" policy, even though it might force the scrapping of war materials, planes, tanks, trucks, and other war equipment.

Scrap Badly Needed

Nelson said, monthly production for the rest of this year must average double the current level. Expenditures for war goods alone under the 1942-43 program must average $4,000,000,000 a month, he said, compared with the current rate of about $3,500,000,000.

For the years 1942 and 1943, the nation must produce $140,000,000 worth of war goods, he said.

Officers were installed and Miss Josephine Yagodic, who will serve as president for the coming year, named her committees at a meeting of Zeta Theta chapter, Alpha Iota sorority last night at the Y. M. C. A. Miss Dora Leib was the installing officer, assisted by Miss Mary Virginia Fowler as marshal and Miss Ruth Rowland, pianist.

Installed with Miss Yagodic were: Miss Josephine Manzo, vice president; Miss Anna Mae Spano, recording secretary; Miss Helen Sansotta, corresponding secretary; Miss Martha Fabian, social secretary; Miss Darlene Smith, treasurer; Miss Irene Powell, pledge captain; Miss Florence Arnold, Hedges, marshal; Miss Irene Hall, chaplain; Miss Mary Kathryn Taylor, parliamentarian.

The following committees will serve for six months: year book, Miss Martha Fabian, chairman; Miss Helen Sansotta, Miss Dora Leib, Miss Anna Rowland, Miss Rosella Sheeche and Mrs. Mildred Foutt; program, Miss Anna Mae Spano, chairman; Miss Irene Hall, Miss Mabel Elliott, Miss Ruth Rowland, Miss Letta Poling and Miss Jean Davis; ways and means, Miss Helen Sansotta, Miss Dora Leib and Miss Irene Powell; publicity and telephone, Miss Mary Kathryn Taylor, Miss Josephine Manzo and Mrs. Florence Arnold; Hedges, constitutional, Miss Josephine Manzo, chairman; Miss Anna Mae Spano, Miss Mary Kathryn Taylor and Miss Humes.

The national convention of the sorority will be held in Cleveland the first week-end in July. Miss Martha Fabian is delegate and Miss Mary Kathryn Taylor, alternate from the chapter.

A "dutch" treat at the Walgreen drug store followed the meeting.

Unless Vernon wins a stay of execution, he will receive $2 a day with the usual wage.

"Mam's" the Word For WAAC's New Officers

By The Associated Press
DES MOINES, Ia., June 25—It'll probably be "yes, mam," "no, mam," and "right away, mam" in the women's army.

Obviously, the "sir" which every buck private and junior officer learns to use in addressing a superior officer is hardly suitable.

Until the first WAAC officers are commissioned, they will be addressed as "Miss So-and-so" and "Mrs. So-and-so," as the girls are called.

Officially at the WAAC officers' training school here said today "mam" probably will be the substitute.

Gestapo Vs. Germany's John Doe

A CARELESS WORD MAY END IN A SIX MONTHS TERM IN A CONCENTRATION CAMP...

EVERY NEIGHBOR IS ENCOURAGED TO SPY ON YOU...

'SHOT WHILE RESISTING ARREST'

BY ALVIN SHINKOFF
Wide World Features

NEW YORK—The Gestapo, Hitler's authoritarian, grim in influence and power as the word goes on.

In his late speeches, including the Reichstag address in which he proclaimed war against the United States, Hitler hinted darkly that there is sabotage among the German people. He warned with all the oratorical vigor of which he is capable, that any refusal to give less than every thing to the German war effort will be punished ruthlessly.

That ominous threat means work for the henchmen. There will be more arrests, more mysterious disappearances, more German gentlemen executed to the accompaniment of the curt announcement, "shot while resisting arrest." It's easier that way than to go through the dreary formality of a trial.

Don't Believe It All

The Gestapo is a group rightly dreaded by many elements in Germany, and thoroughly respected by any official who has any public post.

But for all that, a lot of melodramatic honor has been written about the Gestapo. It is a police force much like many others. The Gestapo doesn't see everything. It wields no supernatural powers. It is composed of good men and the average German wakes up thinking of the Gestapo, and that he trembles through the day in fear of summary arrest and a dismal, mysterious fate hardly equaled in the face of millions of Germans give no more thought to the Gestapo than, for instance, the ordinary citizen of Pennsylvania might worry about the state police.

The reason for this complacency on the part of about eighty per cent of all Germans is that they give no offense to the Nazi order. The way to get along with the Gestapo is, first and most important, not to be a Jew. And, second, never Hitler, fear Himmler and do nothing which might even remotely be interpreted as opposition to any Nazi project.

The way to be immune to the Gestapo is to be a member of the National Socialist party.

Sleuthing Prevalent

The Gestapo gets its lines into many places. It's conceivable, although not likely, that the janitor of your apartment is an agent. If you have given any one reason for suspicion your telephone may be tapped occasionally and your mail watched. You will not, unless you are a suspect of first importance, be lagged around town, nor is there any special reason for an ordinarily well-behaved man to fear the stranger who may sit with him in a restaurant.

There are Gestapo agents in government offices. They sit in the foreign office, in many instances their identity unsuspected, watching everyone all the way up to Ribbentrop. They have honeycombed the Propaganda ministry, telling Himmler all about Goebbels.

The Gestapo makes considerable use of two methods, repudiated in many countries, for keeping tabs on the population. The first is employment of agents in business, social groups and gangs. An American policeman would call such agents stool pigeons, and they operate in Germany precisely as such dubious creatures would act anywhere else.

The second method is collection of information by denunciation. The Old Polson Pen

"Report your neighbor to the police," the Gestapo advises the German people. "Write an anonymous letter if you prefer to be unidentified."

The method may be abhorrent to a great majority of the people, but it works. It uncovers a manner of offenses against wartime regulations, especially anti-boarding and rationing. It doesn't add anything to the sweetness of life in Germany to realize that every acquaintance and neighbor is encouraged to spy on you.

But now, after Hitler's denunciation against any slackness or opposition, it is inevitable that the Gestapo will bear down more firmly.

The Berliner, always impatient and disrespectful in his speech, says, "When Hitler bites Himmler bites."

HUGE ARMY BILL TO BE EXAMINED

Truman Will Investigate Immediate Need for Measure.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 25—An examination into the immediate need of a record-breaking $42,420,000,000 army appropriation was reported underway by a senate committee today as Senator Truman (D-Mo.) announced he would seek to cut down any expenditures that did not appear to be fully justified at this time.

In a move regarded in some quarters as the first serious congressional questioning of huge military appropriations, Truman told reporters he and other members of an appropriations subcommittee were interested in determining the actual need of making available all of the amount in the house-approved bill—the largest cash outlay ever proposed before the legislative body.

"I want the army to have every cent that it needs," the Missouri senator said, "but we are going to examine into every phase of this thing and if they are building up a big backlog of appropriations that won't be used for months or even years, I am going to move to cut some of them down."

Voicing a similar viewpoint, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he wondered why it was necessary to roll up the $205,000,000,000 in war appropriations that congress will have authorized since July 1, 1940. If it passes, the bill when the actual outlay for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 is not expected to exceed $60,000,000,000.

Conceding that a strong effort might be made in committee to whittle down the measure, Chairman Thomas (D-Okla.) said he had invited the Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, to appear before the subcommittee for a general justification of the appropriations.

The committee called Chief Gen. H. H. Arnold chief of the air force for testimony today.

Hawks Notch Third Win Over Fostoria Red Flares

King Bacon, M. Roseberry Lead Locals to 16-5 Victory; Flares Here Sunday.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

The softball league are making a belated comeback for the season. The Hawks lead after wallowing in the sub-cellar for a month.

At Fostoria the Hawks belted 23 hits off Pitcher Jack Al. Rosemski in carving a 16-5 victory over the Red Flares. It was the Hawks' third victory over Fostoria. They got 10 hits off Pitcher King Bacon, who went the full game, registering his second victory.

One of the starters hit last night was M. Roseberry, catcher and a general playman. He was the first to bat last night in five trips. Gail Kent, State university star, belted a long drive to the park and a single to the offensive spot.

Fostoria's King Bacon, who went the full game, registered his second victory over the Hawks in the seventh frame to lead the locals.

Performances of the Marion mound staff in recent outings has figured no little amount in the surprise turn of events in the Hawk camp. Manager Ray Roseberry, who usually prefers not to make long-range predictions, said last night that he felt the Hawks would be in the thick of the pennant fight by the middle of August.

The addition of Catcher Jack Dillon to replace Johnny Paulus, who recently was inducted into the U. S. coast guard, has added considerable weight to the local's place work. Dillon is batting fifth and last night collected three hits including a double, in five trips.

Manager Ray Roseberry again issued a request that any worker at the Scioto Ordnance Plant who has had previous baseball experience in either pro, semi-pro or amateur classes and desiring to continue to play contact him at his home at 272 Patterson street. Special try-outs will be arranged for persons whose working schedule conflicts with the regular practice periods of the Hawks, Manager Roseberry said.

Fostoria will come here Sunday for an Ohio State league battle at Lincoln park. The game is scheduled to get underway at 3 p. m. Joe Roseberry, who recently fanned 15 and allowed only three hits in pacing the Hawks to a 3-0 shutout win over Tiffin, is scheduled to pitch for the locals.

Other games in the loop Sunday are: Fremont at Galion and Tiffin at Findlay.

OHIO SECOND IN FISHING LICENSES

Ohio ranked second in the United States with the number of fishing licenses sold last year, according to a tabulation released by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

The national total of licensed anglers was 2,044,034. Compared with the previous year the total indicates an increase of 145,750 licenses.

Michigan topped the list with 773,228 licenses. Ohio ranked second with 714,342, followed by Minnesota with 696,426. Other states in their ranking order were Indiana, New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Missouri and California.

BASS FISHING HINTS

The bass season opened in Ohio last week with many anglers whipping the waters of the state-owned lakes and many hundreds of miles of bass streams with their lures.

Here are some places that promise good fishing: Decker lake in Miami county, which opened on June 15, offers considerable promise to the anglers in quest of the large-mouth bass.

The lake is small and can be fished from shore where many of the under-water log devices may be reached by long poles. The easier retrieving his plug or fly across these long shelters in shallow water may find many a bass ready to take the lure.

Van Buren lake in Hancock county one of the newest of the conservation division's "headwater hatcheries" lakes will provide fishing for medium sized black bass, crappies, bluegills and catfish. It is also well-filled with log cover devices so necessary for attracting fish to spots where they may be located by the anglers.

Other lakes that are attracting anglers are: Lake Hope in the Zaleski forest near McArthur, Lake Vesuvius, six miles north of Ironton on state route 75; Jackson lake, just west of the village of Oak Hill; Kiser lake, just north of St. Paris and west of Urbana. A new lake opened June 18 is the Federal Soil Conservation tree nursery lake north of Zanesville which will be open every Thursday from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m.

All the Muskingum conservation lakes, particularly Seneca lake, southeast of Cambridge, offer great promise to the bass fishermen this year.

Lake Hope has exceeded all expectations and has produced a type of bass fishing that even the veterans have accustomed to be excellent. Reports of a bass with almost every cast of a spinner or plug indicate what the accomplished angler may expect from this lake if conditions of water and weather are favorable.

Good bass fishing may be found in choice spots on many local streams. Soft crawls will replace the early season minnow as a preferred live bait. Large bass hooks on 15-pound test lines and long cane poles will be the favorite equipments, and the fisherman who uses this outfit properly by approaching the promising bass spots quietly and dropping the craws or minnows beside submerged logs, rocks, weed beds and the like, will have the best success.

Artificial baits which include the Hildebrandt "flicker" spinner for the fly rod, the river run, plus, crab wiggler, June bug spinner with night-crawler, and a host of other designs having a natural action in the water, will take the most bass for the bait casters.

CONSERVE WILD LIFE WITH FLUSHING BAR

The cooperation of farmers and landowners was sought today by Commissioner Don Waters of the Ohio division of conservation and natural resources in an effort to prevent the unnecessary slaughter of wildlife. All persons engaged in mowing and harvesting operations during the next few months were urged to equip their machines with flushing bars or other similar devices designed to reduce mortality among many ground nesting species of wildlife.

The next few months will be an important period for pheasants, rabbits and other small game.

Wide World Features

Twelve men or a quarter million, the army has a name for it, and a head man to run it. This shows, at a glance, how America's World War II fighting force is organized.

DIXIE WEAVES

Cool as a Julep—light as a cloud!

The most comfortable . . . and the most efficient . . . summer suits made, to our way of thinking, are Dixie Weaves by Hart Schaffner & Marx.

Tailored of a zephyr-light, all-wool fabric, they are porous and cool . . . actually let your body breathe.

Because they're needled by experts who know how to tailor year 'round garments, these sturdy, durable suits will look well all summer long . . . And will hold their press and their style no matter how high the Marion temperature goes.

A summer suit is a necessity today . . . and Dixie Weave is the top-ranking summer suit in the field! Be sure to stop in and ask for it by name! It's

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Medical Science Busy

I HAVE JUST been talking with an American physician who has made many brilliant discoveries in the field of medical science. He tells me that the research work that is being done in this field is being done in a most surprising manner. Of course, a great many of the devices have already been tested out which have helped patients to endure high altitudes for a long time, but the whole problem has not yet been solved. One of the factors in the solution seems to be that if the adrenal glands can be kept active, the endurance of aviation is greatly increased. As a matter of fact, he says, the adrenal glands can be stimulated and by using this stimulant, a patient can be kept in a perfect state of health for a much longer time than has been believed possible.

I am not at liberty to divulge the method used, which comes under the heading of a military secret, but the man to whom I spoke is a conservative research worker and seemed to feel that this was one of the great steps in aviation in this field.

Another field of medical character in which advances are being made is in the different types of goggles and spectacles used by the armed forces in various forms of combat. This also is a military secret but is sufficiently important that high officials regard it as one of the great improvements in Army equipment of the last few months.

Another war item has to do with the serious shortage of surgical gauze, bandages and other first-aid materials. Dr. George Baehr, Chief of the Office of Civilian Defense Medical Division, says, "This unlimited purchasing of first-aid materials is based upon a wrong conception of air raid casualties. These casualties are usually of such severity that only trained emergency medical field units are competent to attend the injured at the site of an accident." England's experience revealed that bomb casualties were relatively few in proportion to the amount of property damage, but a large percentage of the victims died within a short time after the injury unless they received surgical attention from trained field units headed by physicians.

Inasmuch as the program of the Office of Civilian Defense, as it affects hospitals, makes ample provision for emergency medical field units and ambulance facilities, the present drain on first aid materials is not only useless but genuinely hazardous. As an illustration of what is happening, Dr. Baehr stated that one of our cities purchased 50,000 first aid kits for its school teachers, and that every warden's post, every apartment building and every floor of every municipal and other government building was being equipped with first aid supplies.

James M. Landis, Director of the Office of Civilian Defense, adds: "The rapidly increasing wastage of gauze bandages and Spencer Tells Madge Jack Insisted on Leaving Hideaway.

I STRUGGLED up to a sitting position as I heard the knock, but before I could get the door open my eyes sufficiently to see I heard a voice say, "Come in." I opened the door and there stood a man I had never seen before. He was a young man, about 25, with dark hair and a friendly smile. He said, "I'm Spencer. I'm looking for Madge Jack. She's in here, isn't she?"

"You're looking for her?" I asked. "Yes, I am," he replied. "I think she's going to take a trip. I want to see her before she goes." "I'm sorry to disturb her," my father said, "but I can't help it. I must see her at once. No, he didn't go in and see her. He's already awake. I told her to go to bed. I hope you don't mind talking to me in this manner. I didn't have time to change back to street clothes. Just go back and lie down," he said. "I'll be in directly."

He turned to Ronald, who was still standing deferentially with the air of being at attention. "No news of Marion?" "You'll excuse me, Dad, I know," he said. "I want to talk to your aunt Madge alone."

Quick alarm flashed into the boy's eyes. "You have had no news of Marion?" he asked. "No, no, nothing that remotely concerns her," my father said. "Just lie down again and try to relax. You can help Marion later by keeping fit, you know."

"Yes, I know," Ronald said submissively, and my father followed me into the bedroom and shut the door. "I'd like to keep this from you," he said, "but I can't. Jack has gone away again." "I think I must have swayed slightly at his announcement, for he quickly put out his hand and grasped my arm, steadying me. Madge Shocked.

"Forgive me!" he said. "I should not have told you so quickly. Sit down!" He propelled me gently toward a chair, but I twisted free of his hand. "Thank you, Father," I said firmly, "but I am perfectly all right, and—I prefer to take this standing. Do you mean he has disappeared again? I feared it. Indeed, he told me he would not endanger anyone else as he had endangered Professor Diswell." He didn't appear, no!" my father said. "He simply told me that he could not and would not remain at the hideaway. Frankly, I think he was most afraid of you."

"Of me?" I asked, amazed. "Yes, of you!" he returned. "He knows how close you and Katherine are, and he also knows my darling, your foundation. He is aware that if you thought it your duty to leave Katherine that day, you would, and well, you would do it regardless of the consequences."

Jack Well Guarded. I flushed hotly at his words, and at the quizzical look which accompanied them. But I could not deny the accusation, and he went on. "But I was able to make him take plenty of money with him, also a couple of weapons, handy in an emergency. And I sent him in an armored car almost to the northern border of Connecticut. With the precautions we took I feel sure all trail of him will be lost."

I choked back a dozen questions, finally put only one. "And Professor Diswell?" I asked.

"He stays at the hideaway," my father replied, "until word comes from Jack. If none comes by the end of two weeks, we will know that Jack is in the hands of the gangsters, and we must then revise our plans accordingly."

I shivered at that, but forced myself to put another query. "Do you think, perhaps, he is going back to Professor Diswell's house?" I said.
